

Supporting School Meal Programs

www.khfoodsolutions.com

info@khfoodsolutions.com

Jon Kramer 616-292-5817

John Henry 616-914-3925

In October 2009, Council of the Great City Schools published a paper titled “Managing for Results in America’s Great City Schools” which outlines several metrics. Although the council is a collection of larger city schools, the metrics that are outlined in the paper hold true for any size district. Several of the metrics outlined in the paper are variations of the same concept. Districts should clearly define each metric they establish. While the paper does not go into great detail defining the basis of the metric, it does provide clear intentions and provides areas where adjustments can be made. By utilizing what this paper offers, districts have a great starting point and can hit the ground running to establish the metrics that are important locally.

Food Service Metrics

Even pdf page numbers 24 – 50

Each metric is defined at a high level explaining the importance and listing the factors that influence the results.

Additional Considerations

Even pdf page numbers 52 – 58

Although listed as a metric, these offer some insight and considerations for both District Administration and Food Service Management.

Published Paper

Report of the Performance Measurement and Benchmarking Project